Subject: Quick Question About Your Prospects

Hi [First Name],

Quick question, how often do your prospects want to move forward but hesitate when it comes to payment?

I work with high-ticket coaching programs to help those clients secure personal funding so they can move forward immediately instead of dropping off.

Over the past 5+ years, I've helped fund 5,000+ clients by guiding them to the best options based on their situation (personal loans, 0% cards, or a combination). I stay with them through the process until they're funded, which makes it easy for your team and improves the overall experience.

The goal is simple: help you close more of the deals you're already generating without discounting or adding pressure.

I work on a performance basis (4%), so there's no cost unless a deal closes.

Would it make sense to show you how this could plug into your current sales process?

2. LinkedIn Connection Message Script

Initial Connection Request Message

Hi [First Name],

I've been impressed with [Company Name]'s approach to [high-ticket coaching/e-commerce education/digital marketing]. I work with companies like yours as an independent funding specialist—helping remove the price barrier for qualified prospects by connecting them with personal loans and credit card financing.

I've successfully funded 5,000+ clients and would love to explore if there's a fit for a partnership. Would you be open to connecting?

Best,
Lynne

Follow-Up Message (After Connection Accepted)

Hi [First Name],

Thanks for connecting! I wanted to reach out because I think there's a real opportunity here.

I work with high-ticket programs to solve a specific problem: qualified prospects who are ready to commit but don't have the cash available upfront. I've helped 5,000+ clients access funding through a network of vetted lenders, and I work on a performance basis—my compensation is 4% of the completed purchase when a prospect gets funded.

The process is simple: Your sales rep transfers a qualified prospect to me through your preferred communication platform, I handle all the funding details, provide daily updates, and stay with them until they're funded. I even support the fulfillment process if needed. Average timeline is 5 days.

I'd love to have a quick conversation about how this could work for your program. Are you open to a brief call this week?

Check out my website: <https://funding-specialist-website.vercel.app>

Looking forward to connecting!

Lynne

3. Phone Script

Opening (First 30 seconds)

"Hi [First Name], this is Lynne Faulkner. I'm an independent funding specialist, and I work with high-ticket coaching and education companies. The reason I'm calling is that I've been following [Company Name] and I think there might be a real opportunity to work together. Do you have about 15 minutes to chat?"

If They Ask “What’s This About?”

“Great question. Essentially, I help remove one of the biggest barriers to conversion for high-ticket programs—the upfront cost. I’ve successfully funded over 5,000 clients, and I work on a performance basis, so compensation is earned only when a prospect gets funded. I integrate directly into your sales process through your preferred communication platform, handle all the funding details, and provide daily updates. I’d love to explore if this could be a fit for your program.”

If They Say “Tell Me More”

“Perfect. Here’s the quick version: Your sales rep transfers a qualified prospect to me through your preferred communication platform. I spend 20-30 minutes with them, understand their financial situation, match them with the right lender from my network of 5-6 vetted online lenders, guide them through the application, and then I stay in touch daily until they’re funded. Your team gets daily updates so you know exactly where they stand. When they’re funded, I provide your team with confirmation, and my compensation is 4% of the completed product purchase. I even support the fulfillment process if needed. That’s it. Zero upfront cost, zero risk.”

If They Ask “How Much Does This Cost?”

“Great question—it’s completely performance-based. My compensation is 4% of the completed product purchase when a prospect successfully gets funded. If they don’t get funded, you don’t pay anything. So there’s zero risk and zero upfront cost to try this out.”

If They Ask “What’s Your Success Rate?”

“I’ve successfully funded 5,000+ clients over the past 5 years. I work with all credit profiles, including challenging ones, and I have relationships with 5-6 vetted online lenders. The average funding timeline is 5 days for personal loans, and I can handle 20-30+ prospects per week. I’m not going to tell you every single prospect will get funded—that depends on their credit profile and financial situation—but I work creatively to find solutions, even for people with less-than-perfect credit.”

If They Ask “Are You Exclusive?”

“No, I work with multiple companies simultaneously. This actually works in your favor because it means I maintain consistent availability and volume. I’m not dependent on just one company for my income, which means I’m always available during my shift times.”

If They Ask “How Do We Get Started?”

“Perfect. Here’s what I suggest: Let’s schedule a brief call where I can walk you through exactly how the process works, answer any questions, and we can see if this is a fit. I’m available [mention your available times]. Also, check out my website at <https://funding-specialist-website.vercel.app>—it has all the details about my process, compensation structure, and how companies work with me. Does [specific time] work for you?”

Closing

“Thanks so much for your time. I really think this could be a great fit for your program. Let’s connect soon and explore this further. You have my contact info—feel free to reach out anytime.”

If They Say Yes

"Interesting! What type of program? [Listen to their answer] That's great. So here's what I do—I integrate directly into your sales process. 8. Email Follow-Up Sequence

Day 1: Initial Email

Send the cold email script above.

Day 5: First Follow-Up

Subject: Quick Follow-Up: Funding Support for [Company Name]

Hi [First Name],

I wanted to follow up on my email from earlier this week about funding support for your [program type]. I know your inbox is probably packed, so I'll keep this brief.

The core idea is simple: I help your qualified prospects access funding, removing the price barrier that causes drop-offs. I work on a performance basis (4% only when funded), so there's zero risk to you.

If this sounds interesting, I'd love to have a quick 15-minute conversation. If not, no worries—I appreciate your time!

Best,
Lynne

Day 10: Second Follow-Up

Subject: Last Attempt: Funding Support Partnership

Hi [First Name],

This is my last attempt to reach out. I genuinely think there's an opportunity here to increase conversions for your program, but I understand if the timing isn't right.

If you ever want to explore funding support for your prospects, feel free to reach out. I'm always here to help.

Best,

Lynne

9. Objection Handling Scripts

Objection: “We don’t have a problem with conversions.”

Response: “That’s great to hear! Most companies I work with don’t think they have a problem until they start tracking how many qualified prospects drop off at the final stage due to price. Even a 5-10% improvement in conversions can mean significant revenue. Would you be open to a quick conversation just to explore the possibility?”

Objection: “We already have a funding solution in place.”

Response: “I appreciate that. Many companies do. What I find is that external funding specialists like me often get better results because prospects feel more comfortable discussing their financial situation with a third party. Plus, I work on a performance basis—you only pay me when it actually works. Would you be open to exploring if we could improve on what you’re currently doing?”

Objection: “We’re not interested in partnerships.”

Response: “I totally understand. Most companies aren’t actively looking for partnerships. But here’s the thing—this isn’t really a partnership in the traditional sense. I’m more like an external contractor who integrates into your existing sales process. You only pay me when a prospect gets funded. There's no long-term commitment, no overhead, and zero risk. Would you be open to just a quick conversation to see if it makes sense?"

Objection: "We'll have to think about it."

Response: "Absolutely, that makes sense. Why don't we schedule a time to chat in the next week or two? That way, you'll have all the information you need to make a decision. How does [specific day/time] look for you?"

Objection: "What if a prospect doesn't get funded?"

Response: "Great question. If a prospect doesn't get funded, you don't pay me anything. My compensation is earned only when the prospect successfully gets funded and completes the purchase. So there's zero risk to you. I'm incentivized to find creative solutions and work with all credit profiles to make it happen."

Objection: "How do we know you're legitimate?"

Response: "That's a fair question. Check out my website at <https://funding-specialist-website.vercel.app>—it has all the details about my process, my track record (5,000+ clients funded), and how companies work with me. I'm also happy to provide references from companies I've worked with. And remember, you only pay me when it works, so there's no risk to trying this out."

10. Key Talking Points to Remember

Lead with the problem: Most high-ticket programs lose qualified prospects at the final stage due to price.

Emphasize performance-based pricing: Compensation is earned at 4% when a prospect gets funded. Zero upfront cost, zero risk.

Highlight your track record: 5,000+ clients funded, 5+ years of experience, average 5-day timeline.

Stress seamless integration: Prospect transfers through preferred communication platform, daily updates, minimal training required.

Mention flexibility: You work with multiple companies simultaneously and can handle 20-30+ prospects per week.

Address credit concerns: You work with all credit profiles, including challenging ones, and have creative solutions.

Be confident but humble: You know your value, but you're not pushy. You're genuinely trying to help them solve a problem.

11. Best Practices for Outreach

Personalization is key. Always research the company and the person you're reaching out to. Reference something specific about their program or recent news. This shows you're not just sending mass emails.

Lead with value, not features. Don't start by talking about yourself. Start by identifying a problem they likely have (losing qualified prospects at the final stage) and positioning yourself as the solution.

Be specific about results. Instead of saying "I help companies increase conversions," say "I've successfully funded 5,000+ clients and work with all credit profiles."

Make it easy to say yes. Offer specific times for calls, provide your website link, and make it clear there's zero risk and zero upfront cost.

Follow up consistently. Most people won't respond to your first email. Plan a follow-up sequence and stick to it. But don't be annoying—be respectful of their time.

Use social proof. When possible, mention other companies you've worked with or ask for referrals from existing partners.

Be authentic. People want to work with people they like and trust. Be genuine, be helpful, and be honest about what you can and can't do.

Track your results. Keep track of which scripts and approaches get the best response rates. Adjust and optimize based on what works.

Research Before Outreach

Before reaching out to any company, research the following:

 2. Their program price: What's the typical cost? This helps you understand if they're truly "high-ticket."
 3. Their sales process: How do they sell? Do they have a sales team? This matters for integration.
 4. Recent news: Have they recently raised funding, expanded, or launched new programs? Reference this in your outreach.
 5. Their leadership: Who's the founder/CEO? Who runs sales? Who should you reach out to?
 6. Their social presence: Follow them on LinkedIn, Instagram, or Twitter to stay updated and find connection opportunities.

13. Tracking & Optimization

Create a Tracking Spreadsheet

Track the following for each outreach:

- Company name
- Contact name and title
- Date of initial contact
- Method of contact (email, LinkedIn, phone, etc.)
- Response received (yes/no/maybe)
- Date of response
- Next follow-up date
- Notes

Metrics to Monitor

- Response rate: What percentage of your outreach gets a response?
- Meeting rate: What percentage of responses convert to meetings?
- Partnership rate: What percentage of meetings convert to actual partnerships?
- Best channel: Which outreach method gets the best response?
- Best script: Which script variation gets the most engagement?

14. Follow-Up Strategy

The 5-Touch Follow-Up Sequence

Touch 1 (Day 1): Initial cold email

Touch 2 (Day 5): First follow-up email

Touch 3 (Day 10): Second follow-up email (last attempt)

Touch 4 (Day 15): LinkedIn connection request + message

Touch 5 (Day 20): Final email or phone call

If no response after 5 touches, move on to the next prospect. Don't waste time on people who aren't interested.

15. Closing the Deal

When They're Ready to Move Forward

“Perfect! Here’s what happens next: We’ll schedule a brief call where I can walk you through exactly how the process works. Then, we’ll set up a Slack channel for communication, and I’ll be ready to start receiving hot transfers whenever you have qualified prospects. You only pay me 4% when a prospect gets funded. Sound good?”

Getting the First Prospect

“Great! Let’s start with your next qualified prospect. Have you got anyone coming through the pipeline soon? I’m ready to go as soon as you are.”

Final Tips

1. Be patient but persistent. Building partnerships takes time. Don’t expect immediate responses.
2. Stay organized. Keep track of all your outreach efforts so you don’t miss follow-ups.
3. Be authentic. People can tell when you’re being genuine. Be yourself.
4. Focus on value. Always lead with how you can help them, not what you want from them.
5. Follow through. If you say you’re going to do something, do it. Build trust through consistency.
6. Keep improving. Continuously refine your scripts and approach based on feedback and results.

Good luck with your outreach! You’ve got this! 🚀
